NOTES ON THE TOURNAMENT
WITHIN THE FRAMEWORK OF FAROE GAMES

FAROE GAMES:

Faroe Games is a multisport event with about 20 sports, where the probably most exotic is the "Sheepdog Trial". Each sport is free to fill the four days with whatever they want within their sport. The Faroe Games starts on Thursday morning with an opening ceremony in each of the four cities that host the initiative, and it all ends on Sunday evening with a big party in Torshavn.

The following 5 pages are from the Faroe Games official flyer.

TEAM EVENTS:

There will be two badminton teams events. The first begins on the afternoon Thursday 30th and ends on the Friday. It is open for U15-players. That is players born in 2007, 2008 or 2009. It is also open for foreign players. They must however sign on to the Faroe Games using the mail address FGJI2022@bsf.fo no later than May 31st, the entry deadline for the Junior International tournament.

The second event begins on Friday evening and ends on the Saturday or Sunday. It is open for all players born in 2006 and earlier, so players from the Junior International that loses their first match may also participate, as they are automatically signed on to the Faroe Games. They don't need to register.

Common to both is that the registration takes place as individuals and not as a team. The teams are put together across ages and national boundaries, albeit with a uniform gender distribution. Both events begin with a small team building session.

TOURIST INFO:

It may prove difficult to find affordable rental cars. Instead, you can use city buses. They are free to use. There is also a fine network of buses and ferries. The timetables are here: <https://www.ssl.fo/en/>

In early July, it is bright almost around the clock. It may therefore be a good idea to bring a sleeping mask.

The following website is probably the most comprehensive site for tourists going to the islands: <https://www.faroeislands.fo/>
